With just enough exceptions to keep them on the radio a little, and those often as tepid as 1994's “I'll Stand by You,” the songs on the albums between then and the new Viva El Amor!

Condensed Regular 36 pt

Jack DeJohnette keeps the troops in order, injecting more notes and accents than Ginger Baker on double amphetamines into a beat that rocks. Yet this unique sound is evolving fast. Still nominally beholden to theme-and-variation, Black Beauty is soloists' music record.

James Harrison and his grandson Trey

Based on Harrison's plasma, a serum was created that saved the lives of more than 2.4 million babies, including his own grandson.

In the press, the donor was called "the man with the golden arm", but he never considered himself a hero. "Perhaps donating blood is my only talent," Harrison told CNN.
